

Yezika's Weekly Report 4

26th of June to 2nd of July

Monday 26th of June

First day of a new week. I hope the monday shows how the rest of the week is going to turn out. Because the remaining days of this week is going to be fantastic if it is true.

Our leader Kiia, our long lost gnome Diddi and myself meet up in Darnassus today. We were walking from the Temple of Moon towards the gates when Diddi told us about the Ravenholdt Manor and that she wanted to take us there. She suggested to have a picnic when we were to arrive. Both Kiia and me liked the idea of a picnic and what better company could we have than Diddi?

When we passed the bank, a druid was resting on one of the benches. Diddi recognized him, it was Spjuthök. After a little talk with him he was invited to come with us and we set course to the flight master in Rut'theran Village. When we arrived in Auberdine Diddi stopped at the landing platform. We asked what is was, and she said that she had to leave us again. It was something that she had forgot to do. We didn't even have tim to ask how long it would take before she got back or if she wanted any help befor he was on a gryphon back to Rut'theran Village.

There we were, Kiia, Spjuthök and me. Didn't know what to do. I suggested that we could walk down to the beach while we waited for Diddi. The sun were shining nicely on the dark forest. It was a great day for a picnic on the beach. Kiia did spot a small island not far out in the ocean that she thought would be nice to have a picnic at.

We all swim out to the island and sat down around a fire. We begun to talk about Spjuthök and how he was doing with his lost memory. Apparently it was not that good. Kiia who had found a new recipe begun to cook some food that we all could eat. I don't really remember what happened but Spjuthök begun to whistle on a song and suddenly he just fall down too the ground. We got very scared and didn't know what had happened. I remember i thought that he maybe got shoot from a passing boat or something, but i couldn't see any blood. Kiia took his hand and she could feel that he was still alive. He begun to regain his conscious. We were all very relieved when we know he was out of danger.

When we asked what did happened he said he remembered something about the song. It was his mother who had sung it for her when he was smaller. Seems like his memory is coming back to him a bit.

Spjuthök then told us a little secret of his own, that i can not tell here. But it was good news, and Kiia did let him in on a little secret as well.

Tuesday 27th of June

Woke up in Darnassus today. Got the feeling the day were going to be something different, or that something would happened.

I found out that Kiia had been in Dire Maul for some time. Apparently the ogres had kept her busy. I decided to go there and short after i arrived Maly also did. Kiia were exhausted and looked like she needed a rest. There were one more thing she wanted to do before. A big ogre called Skarr the Unbreakable had been irritated her by sending hyenas after her all the time. Me and Maly did help her to show him that he was not that unbreakable. Then we all left the place for this time, knowing it would be a little bit safer for others to visit.

Skarr the (not so) unbreakable.

I went to Feathermoon Island and rested out for a while, before i took the gryphon to the new flight point in Ratchet in the Barrens. I had promised Glionsson to catch some Deviate Fishes for him. He needed them before Saturday, so i got started right away. I did quite well, but suddenly another elf cam riding towards me. She looked happy to see me, but the news she had was not the best. I was called to the Temple of Moon in Darnassu. She could not tell why or who it was that wanted to see me. But i had the feeling it was something important so i took of myself.

I meet Kiia in Darnassus and i told her that i was called to the temple. She looked a bit confused, she had not heard anything going on. She followed me to the temple.

(Read about the meeting inside the temple at the next page)

Inside the Temple of the Moon.

As i stepped into the Temple of Moon i turned turned around one last time. I meet Kiia's eyes and she smiled at me before she turned around and walked away. I knew i would probably not see her awake again today, but we have spent much time together latley and tomorrow would probably not be a exception.

My trainer, Jandria, greeted me warmly and so did Friodren Mooncaller, the herbalist trainer in Darnassus. I was a bit surprised to see Friodren here also, as i was thought only Jandria wanted to see me.

- I will be right with you two, Fridodren said and walked away.

Jandria asked Yezika to sit down on one of the stone benches next to the fountain. Jandria sat down next to Yezika.

- How are you Yezika?

- Everything is as good as i want them to be.

- Let's go straight to the point of why i have asked you to come here tonight, Jandria then said.

- We need to ensure the safety of our younger brothers and sisters. They are sent out to all different kind of assignments... Yes you know yourself, Jandria says and looked at me.

- I know what you mean. But what do you want me to do?

- We don't want to ask you to follow them around as we know you have your duties in your guild to fulfill, but we still would like to ask you for something.

- What is it you are talking about?

- Healing potions. We have sent out other skillful herbalists around Azeroth to gather herbs that we can make healing potions with. But we still need more. We were hoping that you next week could travel to Stranglethorn Vale and gather Kingsblood and Liferoots, the ingredients for healing potions.

- Of course i can do that. Anything to ensure the safety of the elves.

- Great, thank you so much Yezika for doing this.

Friodren now came back to us and begun to speak:

- I take it as Jandria already mentioned your little trip.

- Yes she has.

- Good, i however have one more thing i would like to ask you about. You might have meet Tannysa on your earlier visits to Stormwind?

- Yes i have, she learns out the skill of gathering herbs to the humans.

- Yes that is she. She have a package for me, that i want you to get to me when you passing by.

Could you do that to me.

- I think i can, what's in it.

- It is just some new herb she have found, very important ones. So i don't want to risk them to get lost in the regular mail service. That's why i asks you to get them for me.

- I will do that for you. You can expect to have them when i return with the herbs for the healing potions.

- Than you very much priestess Yezika.

Wednesday 28th of June

I overslept again today. Wonder why it always happens on Wednesdays.

Today we were going to have our meeting with our guild to discuss our future plans for the Shadow Council. I decided to check my mailbox before i headed out to Wetlands and Menethil where we were suppose to meet up.

A letter had come for me, it was from Kiia. She wrote that our meeting was moved to Friday. Good thing i did check the mail before heading out.

I decided to take it easy today instead and traveled to the Barrens to continue catching fishes to Glimsson.

Out of character (ooc):

Our realm was down until the evening, Bliizard had decided to move it and a few others. After the move the server was laging (for some of us) the remaining week.

Thursday 29th of June

The note that was beside my bed when i woke up today told me to travel to Felwood. Apparently Kiia and Diddi had gone there to check on the Shadow Council. Their forces had gathered up pretty good since our last visit there some weeks ago.

Kiia, Diddi and me went into their caves again and was surprised how many new warlocks that had gathered. Kiia did notice the armor some of their warlocks were wearing looked similar to the ones the troll in Hinterlands were wearing. Could it be a connection between them maybe? We would look more into it later on.

Diddi playing with a voodoo doll she found in a cave.

Diddi had to leave us due to her duties as a rogue. Kiia and myself decided to move on north in Felwood to aid the Timbermaws. Their enemies have grown in numbers also and the Timbermaws needed our help more than ever. We did clear out some camps the Furbolgs had set up. And the Timbermaws were very grateful to us. We mover thru their cave and came out in Moonglade. Kiia was feeling very tired after the many fights in Felwood and decided to rest in Moonglade. I followed her to the inn and stayed with her until she did fall asleep. Then i moved out again on yet another adventure...

Friday 30th of June

After our canceled meeting this Wednesday we had set the date for it today. We all gathered in Menethil and made sure everyone were present before we moved out. Our destination was Enrondins farmstead in eastern Wetlands next to to coast. Three members from the order of Natures Grasp were also attending to our meeting as observers. Aleah, Telashur and Kathrene. However the air between them and some of our members were not the best.

Kiia begun the meeting to inform us all about the situation in Felwood and about the Shadow Council. She also told that our next target would probably be the Dark Portal. Onixiana had been informed about our plans since before and was investigating it closer. However we have not heard from here in the whole week, so we could not decide much at this meeting.

The Natures Grasp didn't seem all to excited about helping our warlock or us in this quest. Using demonic power is against their order for well know reasons. Myself is a bit sceptic about it as well, but i think we can come a bit further against the Shadow Council by doing so.

Rynera and Pantalaimon did not either come along well with them. Kiia had to ask Rynera to take a walk and try to calm down a bit. She was clearly frustrated.

All in all the meeting did not take to long time, and we are still trying to work out a relationship between our guilds.

Our guild tournament had to be moved to another date. the dwarfs at the farm were not to happy about us having it at the farm.

Saturday 1st of July

Today i did spend most of my time in Darnassus preparing for my journey to Stranglethorn Vale the coming week. As the night came close, i did meet Kiia at the temple gardens. I was lying in the grass and planed my route thru the Eastern Kingdoms. She came up to me and sat down. I was very happy to see her again, and so did she seemed. We talked about everything there was to talk about. Not long after Kiiioth also showed up together with Ivellion, the leader of Natures Grasp.

We were honored to have him as our company for some hour. We did discuss the meeting we had yesterday and the future of our cooperation. Although nothing was decided about our guilds tonight, i got the feeling that we came a bit closer to a working solution.

Kiiioth and Ivellion from Natures Grasp.

Sunday 2nd of July

The only thing i did today was traveling. South thru Darkshore, Ashenvale and The Barrens. When i reached ratchet i had to wait a while as the boat from there to Booty Bay were a bit late. i did meet a very nice tauren who i spende some time fishing with at the bay. He even protected me from a troll that looked interested at seeing me dead.

I then got onto the boat and it sailed away to Booty Bay. I took some hours sleep in one of the beds on the boat so i would be well rested when i got to the pirate town of Booty Bay.

Last words

Yezikas chase for herbs has begun. Read all about it in her report next week.

Our own guild banker, Goeb. Also know as Kiimini.
